From inside the book:

Lars Jorgensen Hauge was born April 27, 1837, in Hauge Pan Fyen, near Odessa, Denmark. In his early youth he learned of the American Indian and determined to devote his life to their uplift. He came to America in 1858 and has since devoted himself to the advancement of the redmen of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota. For the past twenty years he has resided upon Red river in Stanley county, where he has ministered to a band of Indians domiciled there, but making frequent visits to other bands.
